The writers are on the wall.

Taking visitors to the Graves Gallery on a journey from the Bard to Jarvis Cocker, a new exhibition from the National Portrait Gallery celebrates some of Britain's finest literary talents.

Writers of Influence: Shakespeare to JK Rowling stars many memorable names from the literary hall of fame, including Geoffrey Chaucer, Agatha Christie and Oscar Wilde, alongside contemporary wordsmiths such as Jarvis Cocker and Dizzee Rascal. In a premier for Sheffield, this exhibition sees the 'Chandos' portrait of William Shakespeare tour outside of London for the very first time.

The exhibition will be opened by Sandy Nairne, Director of the National Portrait Gallery and David Bell, Permanent Secretary, Department for Children, Schools and Families.
